

President Alivisatos convened a "Committee on Future Academic Directions in Climate and Energy" on November 18, 2021, charging them to explore the potential for the University to become a global leader in the climate and energy space. The Report on Future Academic Directions in Climate and Energy reflects the findings of the committee, as delivered to the President on March 1, 2022.